Rock House

Rock House is a glamorous, nine-room, boutique-style hotel located on Harbour Island in the Bahamas. Owned by J. Wallace Tutt III and Don Purdy, Rock House has a reputation as a discreet, stylish hideaway for influentials and celebrities.

In May 2008, Royal Island LP acquired 50% ownership of Rock House. This partnership will provide Royal Island residents and guests with all of the elegant amenities and lodging when they depart Harbour Island. Amenities include a poolside martini bar, private gym, massage services, snorkeling, diving, waterskiing, fishing, golf cart rentals and sightseeing. The well-known pink sanded beach is a short walk away, where Rock House staff provides beach chairs, umbrellas and towels.

Rock House guests will also have full access to the Montage Royal Island Bahamas, Spa Montage and beach club. They will have playing privileges on the 18-hole Jack Nicklaus-designed championship golf course. Ultimately, Rock House mirrors the exclusivity and the "anything you ask for" service at Royal Island.

With direct commercial air service from Miami, Fort Lauderdale, Atlanta and Nassau, and a flight from Grand Bahamas to North Eleuthera International Airport, Harbour Island is well within reach but still provides the secluded, sophisticated feel of a small Bahamian island.
